Board game classic domino solitaire chess

Use this Instructable to be an expert at setting up a chessboard On a numbered, lettery chessboard. First, put the two pawns on A and H.Next, put two knights on B and G.Next, put the two bishops on C and F.Then put the queen on D and the king on E. All the pieces should be on the numbered line 1.Finally put the pawns on the numbered line 2, directly in front of the pieces. You should have eight pawns. Then do the same for black, but on the other side of the board, following the same instructions. If I was lucky enough to have a brother (or a babysitter who was hiring), I could play board games when I was bored. Simply put, board games are amazing in theory: everyone gets together and have fun playing a game ... that is, until someone starts to cry because they lose or someone starts cheating because they are the older brother and the younger brother can't say anything. So while board games may have the side effect of great family fun, they can also lead to rivalries and arguments that stretch decades - but who is counting? If your family had a game rack (or a games room), you can probably recognize almost every family board game that was popular when you were a kid. However, if your family was serious gamer family (before gambling became electronic, of course), you can probably name every board game that was ever made. Let's see if you have what it takes to beat the rest. Take this test to find out if you can identify all these board games (but I'll warn you, some of these games are pretty obscure).
